

Replay the World Series

Magazine

Playthings

December 1, 2000

A fantasy player's obsession for 50 years, APBA strategy and statistics-based sports games are, for the first time, fully licensed by their respective league and player associations. Whether you idolize micro-manager Tony LaRussa or the three-yards-and-a-cloud-of-dust style of Bill Parcells, every choice is yours to make. If the World Series didn't end to your liking, replay it. Eighth inning, runner on third with the pitcher at the plate? Double switch him out of the game to put down the suicide squeeze. Second down and a yard to go? Get those safeties to bite on a play-action pass.

APBA is currently in discussions with the NBA and WNBA. It also makes SuperStars editions for ages 4 to 7.
